CHIEFS ON A MISSION

BUBBADURAN07, MAHOMES AND A DOMINANT KC SQUAD ROLL TO 9-0 IN SEASON 87

Kansas City is once again setting the tone in MOF, and nine weeks into Season 87, there's no denying it — the Chiefs look like the team to beat.

Under the leadership of Bubbaduran07, KC has jumped out to a perfect 9-0 start, combining explosive offense, opportunistic defense, and the same relentless identity that has kept them among the league's elite for multiple seasons.

Patrick Mahomes continues to play at an elite level, orchestrating one of the most efficient and dynamic attacks in the league. With a powerful ground game led by Kenneth Walker II and a group of game-breaking playmakers around him, the Chiefs are averaging 38.0 points per game — third best in MOF.

On the other side of the ball, the defense has been equally impressive, allowing just 21.0 points per game (2nd) and setting the tone with playmakers like L'Jarius Sneed, Drue Tranquill and Chris Jones.

Through nine weeks, Kansas City has looked complete — and more importantly, consistent. The goal hasn't changed in KC: another championship. And at 9-0, the Chiefs are putting the entire league on notice.

“WE’RE JUST FOCUSED ON GETTING 1% BETTER EVERY WEEK.”

PATRICK MAHOMES KEEPS KC
IN OVERDRIVE

Nine games into Season 87, Patrick Mahomes looks every bit like the MVP we've come to expect. Operating at an elite level, Mahomes has thrown for 2,119 yards and 21 touchdowns while guiding one of the most efficient offenses in MOF. His ability to extend plays, make throws from any angle, and keep defenses off balance continues to be the heartbeat of this Chiefs team.

It's not just the numbers — it's the control. Week after week, Mahomes puts KC in position to score early and often, and when the game gets tight, he delivers. Whether it's a deep shot to Worthy or a perfectly timed check down, Mahomes has been the constant that keeps this offense rolling.

KENNETH WALKER II BRINGS A NEW WEAPON TO THE KINGDOM

While Mahomes commands the spotlight, Kenneth Walker II has quickly become a game-changer in Kansas City's offense. Through nine games, Walker has racked up 1,217 rushing yards and 18 touchdowns, averaging a ridiculous 6.95 yards per carry. He's giving the Chiefs a physical presence that defenses simply can't ignore.

Walker's ability to break tackles (32), create explosive runs, and wear down defenses has opened up the entire playbook for KC. His impact has been immediate, and the combination of Mahomes and Walker has made this

MAHOMES

THE STANDARD

PATRICK MAHOMES REMAINS THE HEARTBEAT OF KANSAS CITY'S PURSUIT OF PERFECTION.

For eight seasons, Patrick Mahomes has redefined what it means to be a franchise quarterback. In Season 87, he isn't just living up to the standard — he's raising it again.

Through nine games, Mahomes has thrown for 2,119 yards and 21 touchdowns, guiding the Chiefs to a perfect 9-0 start. His 122.05 passer rating and 66.67% completion percentage reflect the same efficiency and command that have made him the centerpiece of one of the most dominant dynasties in MOF.

What separates Mahomes isn't just the numbers — it's how he delivers them. Whether it's a perfectly placed deep shot, a no-look throw in traffic, or a back-breaking drive in the fourth quarter, Mahomes continues to make the improbable look routine.

As Kansas City chases another championship, one thing remains clear: in MOF, Patrick Mahomes isn't just the standard for the Chiefs — he's the standard for the entire league.

“Same Mindset. Higher Standard.”

KENNETH WALKER II

A NEW DIMENSION

Explosive. Consistent. Unstoppable. Kenneth Walker II has given Kansas City a game-changing weapon, and through 10 weeks, he's doing exactly what the Chiefs envisioned — leading the AFC in rushing and setting the tone for one of the league's most dangerous offenses.

When the Chiefs added Kenneth Walker II, they knew they were getting more than just a running back. They were adding a difference-maker.

Ten weeks into Season 87, Walker has been everything Kansas City hoped for and more, pacing the AFC in rushing with 1,217 yards and 18 touchdowns. Averaging an impressive 6.95 yards per carry, he has brought a physical, explosive element to the Chiefs' offense.

Walker's ability to break tackles (32), create chunk plays and consistently move the chains has opened up the entire playbook for Patrick Mahomes and this high-powered attack.

From his vision between the tackles to his burst in the open field, Walker has quickly become a fan favorite in Kansas City. He's not just putting up numbers — he's changing how defenses have to play the Chiefs. And with plenty of season left, the AFC's leading rusher looks like he's just getting started.

THE AFC TAKES SHAPE

Kansas City remains perfect, but Miami and Cleveland aren't going anywhere.

Through 10 weeks, the AFC has a clear frontrunner – and a growing group of contenders chasing behind them.

The Chiefs sit alone at 9-0, continuing to set the pace in Season 87. Kansas City has been as complete as any team in MOF, dominating on both sides of the ball and finding ways to win in different fashion each week.

Right behind them, the Dolphins (8-2) and Browns (8-2) have established themselves as legitimate threats. Miami's high-powered offense has kept them in every game, while Cleveland continues to win with a physical, disciplined style that has them near the top of the AFC.

The next tier is a crowded and competitive group. The Colts (6-4), Bengals (6-3), Patriots (6-4) and Ravens (6-4) currently hold the remaining playoff spots, but there's little separation. Indianapolis has been one of the most consistent teams in the conference, Cincinnati remains tough at home, and New England and Baltimore both look like teams built for a late-season push.

Just outside the bracket, the Texans (5-4) are very much in the mix and could make things interesting down the stretch. Tennessee (2-7) and Jacksonville (3-6) still have work to do, but both have shown flashes. With seven weeks left, the AFC playoff race is far from settled – but one thing is clear: it runs through Kansas City until someone proves they can stop them.

THE CHASE PACK

MIAMI AND CLEVELAND KEEP PRESSURE ON

At 8-2, the Dolphins and Browns have been the biggest challengers to Kansas City's perfect start. Miami's explosive offense has made them one of the most dangerous teams in the AFC, while Cleveland has been steady and physical, winning the tough games and keeping themselves firmly in the title conversation.

BATTLE FOR POSITION

A CROWDED MIDDLE COULD COME DOWN TO THE WIRE

Indianapolis (6-4), Cincinnati (6-3), New England (6-4) and Baltimore (6-4) currently hold the final four playoff spots, but the margin is small. Houston (5-4) is right on their heels, and a couple hot streaks could completely flip the bracket over the next seven weeks.

LONG SHOTS STILL ALIVE

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN IN MOF

At 3-6, the Jaguars still have an uphill climb, and the Titans (2-7) face a difficult road, but both have shown glimpses that keep them in the conversation. In a league as competitive as MOF, we've seen what a midseason turnaround can do.

THE NFC IN FOCUS

The Rams set the pace, but a crowded field keeps the race wide open.

Through 10 weeks, the NFC belongs to the Los Angeles Rams. Sitting at 9-1, they've been the most complete team in the conference, combining explosive offense with one of the stingiest defenses in MOF. The Rams have separated themselves at the top, but behind them the race is anything but settled.

The Giants (6-3) and Panthers (6-3) have emerged as the top challengers, each showing the balance and consistency needed for a deep playoff run. Chicago (6-3) is right there as well, continuing to find ways to win and keeping the pressure on the top seed.

Further down, the Cardinals (7-3) remain a dangerous team with one of the most explosive offenses in the conference. Seattle (7-3) and Detroit (6-3) round out the current playoff picture, but the margin is slim and the competition is heating up.

The middle of the standings is where things get interesting. Green Bay (5-5) and New Orleans (4-5) are still very much in the hunt, while Tampa Bay (4-5) and Dallas (4-6) aren't far behind. One hot streak could completely change the playoff landscape over the next seven weeks.

In the NFC South, no team has been able to separate. Carolina leads at 6-3, but New Orleans (4-5), Tampa Bay (4-5) and Atlanta (4-6) are all within striking distance, making it one of the most unpredictable divisions in MOF.

With half the season still to play, the NFC playoff race promises to be a battle. The Rams may be the team to beat, but with so many talented teams packed together, every week matters and the road to the Super Bowl in Season 87 is far from clear.

GIANTS KEEP CLIMBING

A SERIOUS CONTENDER IN THE NFC

At 6-3, the Giants have established themselves as one of the toughest outs in the conference. With a strong defense and a balanced offense, they're proving they belong in the conversation with the NFC's elite.

CARDINALS STAY DANGEROUS

AN OFFENSE THAT CAN BEAT ANYONE

Arizona sits at 7-3 and continues to be one of the most explosive teams in MOF. Their offense can put up points in a hurry, keeping them firmly in the playoff mix as the second half of the season approaches.

LIONS IN THE HUNT

STILL VERY MUCH ALIVE

Detroit is 6-3 and hanging right in the playoff picture. With a talented roster and plenty of season left, the Lions remain a team nobody wants to face down the stretch.

MIDSEASON POWER RANKINGS

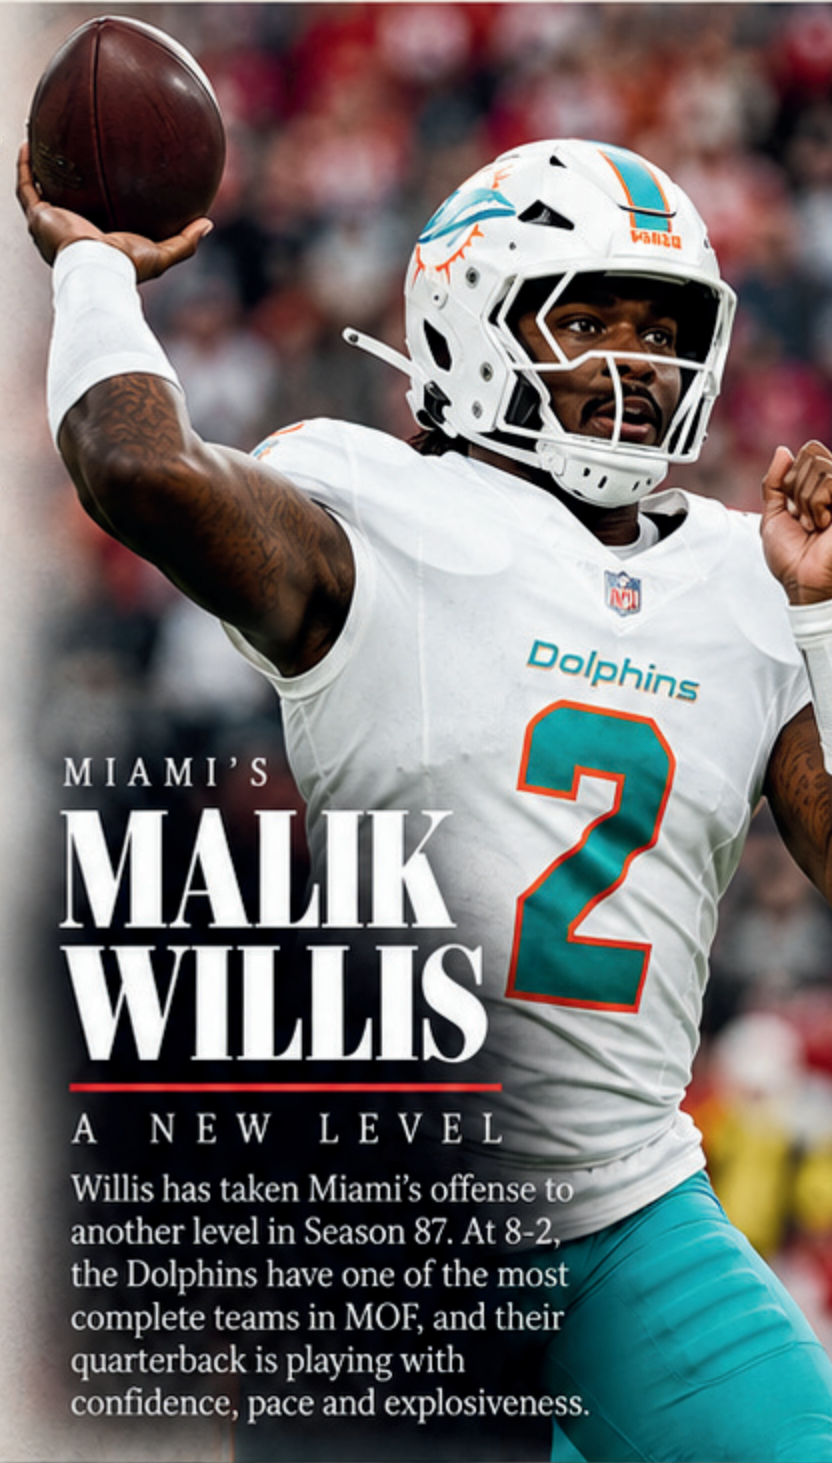

THE CONTENDERS HAVE SEPARATED THEMSELVES.

Ten weeks into Season 87, the landscape in MOF is starting to take shape. The Chiefs remain the team to beat, but a new wave of contenders is officially in the mix.

Kansas City sits alone at 9-0, continuing to set the standard with elite play on both sides of the ball. The Rams are right behind them at 9-1, looking like the only team capable of truly pushing the champs.

The biggest riser of the month is Miami, jumping to No. 3 at 8-2. Behind the dynamic play of Malik Willis, the Dolphins have built one of the most explosive offenses in the league and look like a legitimate threat in the AFC. Cleveland slides to No. 4, but remains a dangerous, physical team with a top-tier roster.

From there, a tightly packed group — Arizona, Seattle, New York, Cincinnati, Carolina and Chicago — all sit at 6-3 or 7-3, making the middle of the rankings as competitive as ever.

MIAMI'S MALIK WILLIS

A NEW LEVEL

Willis has taken Miami's offense to another level in Season 87. At 8-2, the Dolphins have one of the most complete teams in MOF, and their quarterback is playing with confidence, pace and explosiveness.

THE BENCHMARK CHIEFS STILL PERFECT

At 9-0, Kansas City continues to set the pace in Season 87. Elite quarterback play, a dominant defense and unmatched discipline have the Chiefs in a class of their own — at least for now.

CLOSING THE GAP RAMS LOOK READY

The Rams are 9-1 and have looked every bit the contender. With one of the league's most balanced rosters, they remain the biggest threat to Kansas City's reign.

SAQUON BARKLEY

Still one of the most dangerous playmakers in the league, Barkley and the Eagles are searching for answers after a challenging first half.

“We know what this team is capable of. It's on us to finish stronger.”

— SAQUON BARKLEY

CAN PHILLY TURN IT AROUND?

A SLOW START HAS THE EAGLES SEARCHING FOR ANSWERS.

At 3-6, the Eagles find themselves in unfamiliar territory. With a talented roster and one of the league's most dynamic playmakers in Saquon Barkley, expectations were much higher entering Season 87.

Injuries, inconsistency and costly mistakes have plagued Philadelphia through the first 10 weeks. The defense has shown flashes, but the offense hasn't found the same rhythm that made them a contender last year.

Still, it's far from panic time. This is a team with proven talent, strong leadership and a head coach that knows how to win. The question now is whether they can gain traction in a competitive NFC and make a push down the stretch.

If anyone can spark a turnaround, it's Barkley. He remains one of the most electric players in the league, capable of changing a game at any moment. The Eagles' second half will be a true test — and a key storyline to watch as the playoff picture continues to take shape.

DALLAS STILL IN IT

PRESCOTT KEEPS COWBOYS COMPETITIVE.

At 4-6, the Cowboys haven't been as consistent as they hoped, but Dak Prescott continues to give them a chance every week. With one of the most talented rosters in the league, Dallas remains a team to watch in the second half.

DETROIT FINDING ITS EDGE

ST. BROWN LEADS A SURGING LIONS TEAM.

The Lions sit at 6-3 and look like a team rounding into form. Amon-Ra St. Brown continues to be the heartbeat of the offense, giving Detroit a true difference-maker as they push toward a playoff spot in Season 87.

COACH SPOTLIGHT

BUBBADURAN07

STILL
#2

CHIEFS FAN.
A PASS-FIRST MINDSET.
A COACH
STILL WRITING
HIS STORY.

38 seasons. 379 wins. One championship.
And Bubba isn't finished yet.

For most coaches, a résumé like Bubbaduran07's would be enough, Thirty-eight seasons in the MOF. 379 regular-season wins. 22 playoff appearances. 15 division titles. A Super Bowl championship. Yet for the Kansas City Chiefs head coach, the job isn't complete — not even close.

Now 9-0 in Season 87 and the midseason No. 1 team in the MOF Power Rankings, Bubba has his Chiefs back in prime position to make another run. With Patrick Mahomes leading the way and Kenneth Walker II adding a new dimension to the offense, Kansas City looks like a team built to contend — and a coach still driven by something bigger.

PREPARATION NEVER STOPS.

Bubba studies film during the week as he looks for every edge to keep the Chiefs ahead.

A LEADER ON THE SIDELINE.

Bubba has guided eight different franchises in the MOF, but Kanaas City has always felt like home.

BUILT AROUND A SUPERSTAR.

Patrick Mahomes gives Bubba the arm and firepower to play the way he loves.

COACH SPOTLIGHT

BUBBADURAN07

“Different players. Same passion. A longer journey.”

EXPERIENCE.
PASSION.
EVOLUTION.
STILL HUNGRY.

Bubba and Patrick Mahomes have formed a dynamic partnership in Kansas City, built on trust, creativity and a shared belief in explosive football.

Q1

You’ve now coached 38 seasons in the MOF, with 379 regular-season wins, 22 playoff appearances, 15 division titles and a Super Bowl championship. When you look back at that résumé, what are you most proud of?

It has to be the one Super Bowl. While I have made the playoffs a lot, the league has always had great coaches that make it tough to get there. So, I take pride on having a Super Bowl under my belt.

Q2

You’ve spent a huge portion of your MOF career with the Kansas City Chiefs, including the last several seasons. What is it about Kansas City that fits you so well?

First and foremost, I have been a chiefs fan my whole life. Secondly, everyone in the league knows I love to pass the ball. To do that a strong-armed quarterback is something I look at when it comes down to the team draft. So naturally, Mahomes comes in with a great arm and I get to play with the team I love and know.

Q3

You’ve had some incredible regular seasons over the years — including a 17-0 season with Buffalo — but you also know how difficult it is to finish the job in the playoffs. What have all those postseason runs taught you?

The post seasons have taught me that no matter what my record is in the regular season, the team I am playing in the playoffs is always going to give me a fight. The post season is where the top competitors excel and you either match it or get eliminated. So, while I might have had that 17-0 season, it just doesn't matter unless you get the Super Bowl, which I didn't thanks to Mack.

From game planning to roster strategy, Bubba's attention to detail and football IQ have been pillars of his longevity in the MOF.

“Electrifying and scary. We can score in 1 play or 15 plays.”

— BUBBADURAN07

Q4

You finally reached the top and won an MOF Super Bowl with Denver in Season 26. What do you remember most about that championship run, and where does it rank among your MOF memories?

Honestly, it's been so long since it happened, that was my second season in the MOF. Which let's face it, it was really different back then. We would do lobby games and play. If your player got hurt, he would be back the next game. Having to manually type in stats in DaddyLeagues. I have lived to much life since then to really remember a lot about it. I know it came down to the final drive and until I win another Super Bowl it will be number one because it's not something that is just given, its earned.

Q5

This season feels like another special one. You're sitting at 9-0 and No. 1 in the midseason Power Rankings. What has been different about this Chiefs team compared with some of your other great teams?

In seasons past, a lot of people did not like to play me because of the passing ability we have possessed. There might even been a couple cheese complaints in the past. I love to pass the ball, never have really been much of a runner. So, an opponent could hone in on what I loved to do passing the ball. This season is different; you can't do that. Walker has given me something other Chiefs teams never really had a real threat at running the ball. It's been really different.

Q6

Patrick Mahomes and Kenneth Walker II have both been major parts of the offense, with Walker putting together an MVP-caliber first half. How would you describe the identity of this offense?

Electrifying and Scary. We can score in 1 play or 15 plays. Everything depends on how our opponent plays us.

A LEADER BUILT ON PREPARATION

Bubba's steady presence and attention to detail have helped keep the Chiefs undefeated at 9-0 heading into the stretch run.

Q7

After this many seasons, opponents know who you are and how you like to play. How has your coaching style changed from your early MOF seasons to Season 87?

It's definitely changed a lot this season. As stated before, I am an air it out type coach and love to throw the ball. Walker really throws a wrinkle in the mix and needs to be used. It's been an exciting change for me. Makes me wonder how good I could have been doing it more often.

Q8

You've coached eight different NFL franchises in the MOF. Is there one team or era outside Kansas City that you especially enjoyed or that helped shape you as a coach?

That would have to be the 5 seasons I spent with the Bills. Probably the most dominate offensively and defensively I was. I went 70-15 regular season. Only problem is I was 0-5 in making it two the Super Bowl. Though all 5 post seasons I lost to the Super Bowl winning team in the playoffs of which three times to Mack and two times to Big Rueb.

Q9

With nearly 400 career regular-season wins, you've played against generations of MOF coaches. Who have been some of your toughest opponents or biggest rivals over the years?

My biggest rival who always has my number is Canesbucs1. No matter the team or talent difference. I struggle to beat him. Next comes Big Reub, there is still salt left from the playoff losses when I was with the Bills. It wouldn't go without saying that Mack is also on this list. While I am 2-3 against him, the 0-3 is when it mattered, in the playoffs.

Q10

At this point in your career, what still motivates you? Is it championships, competition, the community, building a legacy — or something else?

Its 100% all of the above, I am still chasing #2, the competition is amazing, you can ask anyone I have ever brought in. It is tough and not for the weak hearted. Over the years, I have built strong friendships and/or enemies here in the community. I love every bit of it. I am here to leave some kind of legacy whether its just being the most dedicated and longest standing coach or 60 seasons apart, Coach Bubba wins his second MOF Title is sufficient.

MORE THAN JUST A PASSING GAME

Kenneth Walker II has added a new dimension to the offense, giving Bubba something other Chiefs teams never truly had — a real threat on the ground.
